

THE - HERALD.

Entered at the Brownsville, Texas, postoffice as second class mail matter.

OFFICE: HERALD BUILDING, South Side East Elizabeth Street.

BROWNSVILLE, : : : TEXAS.

THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1901.

CORN is looking up, under the manipulation of Plunger Phillips, but in no instance is the old saying: "Whatever goes up is sure to come down," more frequently verified than in the stock market. It expected therefore that corn will have a fall sooner or later, and it is likely to fall on somebody's head, too.

With the incentive of free rural mail delivery, on condition of keeping up good roads, the farmers and ranchmen throughout the country will doubtless make strenuous efforts to have the country roads improved. The other benefits which good roads will insure make it a most important matter to the rural population. The towns also receive equal benefits in increased trading, which follows in the wake of good roads.

MEN-folks are still considering the shirt-waist, but have not yet decided whether to adopt or to taboo it. Its coolness is certainly a taking feature, but its cut is not conducive to a dignified appearance, and there's no doubt about that. Some mens figures might look well in such a cut, but others would undoubtedly cut such a figure in it, that they would not enjoy it. And so the shirt-waist continues to hang in the balance of masculine favor, until man decides whether it is to be or not to be the fashion.

Late Items.
